

Waveland council in docket dispute

BY LIZ HAAS

Alderman Stan Weidman was given warnings by Mayor Stella Frlot for breaking the rules of order (decorum) for insulting his fellow board members, her and even the board attorney, at Wednesday's meeting.

Disagreements arose when Weidman refused to approve the docket (bills) after a discussion was held on them.

Weidman said, he was voting "No," because there were a couple of other items within the docket he was unsure about.

"We'll go through them line by line if we have to, because I want everyone to be satisfied with the bills," said Frlot. "Your responsibility is to make sure that the expenditure is legal."

"The main problem I have is the lack of time I as an alderman have to review the bills," said Weidman.

"You are denying me the right to review bills prior to the meeting; every other board on the coast prepares their docket ahead of time," he said.

"You gave us the opportunity to come one hour prior to the meeting and I didn't particularly like that, but I at least had the opportunity to sit down with the purchasing agent and get an explanation of what was being spent," he said.

"I am affording you the opportunity to review these bills now," said Frlot. "Please tell us what items you are not comfortable with and we will

Casino Magic to host Holmes-Pepeli match

BY LIZ HAAS

Former heavyweight champion Larry Holmes will take on Rocky Pepeli on Tuesday, March 9, at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis.

The seven-bout card will be contested in a specially-constructed tent which will be erected on the Casino Magic premises.

"We're absolutely thrilled because their fight is on our property and we will have one of the widest tents in the world to house the event," said Len James Giacone, public relations manager, Casino Magic.

The tent will have a 35-foot ceiling, 32,000 square feet of space, and room for over 4,000 chairs.

Giacone commented, "We're formulating plans right now for an exciting week at Casino Magic that may include such things as a Larry Holmes Black Jack Tournament," he said.

"It's going to be a great time for everyone," said Giacone.

The 10-rounder will be tele-

Solid waste program presented to Aldermen

BY LIZ HAAS

Compton Engineering representatives addressed Waveland officials Wednesday on a joint solid waste program for Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The solid waste plan was developed by Hancock County and submitted to the state. The plan was designed for the county and two cities to pool together in a waste management plan that may include disposal, collection and recycling.

The plan calls for a three member board, consisting of a representative from the county, Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

A joint meeting will be scheduled with both cities and the county on the matter.

In other business the board approved authorization for the mayor, police chief, fire chief, public works director and board member, Bob Hubbard, to attend the Fifteenth Annual National Hurricane Conference April 13-16 in Orlando, Florida, with a registration fee of $250 each plus meals, mileage and lodging.

Alderman Stan Weidman voted no because he felt that it was only necessary for one person to make the trip and bring back the information to the rest of the people.

"It's costly and all of our decision makers will be gone," he said, "God forbid if something were to happen here."

"That's why we have second in command," said Mayor Stella Frlot.

The mayor announced that City Hall will change its office hours from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. starting Monday because the office receives more business in the early hours of the day.

The board approved unanimously to put stop signs at the railroad crossings as a safety measure.

The board also approved:

—the minutes;
—a resolution authorizing the mayor and chief of police to sign Hancock County Metropolitan Task Force Interlocal Agreement of 1993;

—authorization for Michael Barnes, Walter Perkins and Dwight Haskell to attend the Mississippi Rural Water Association Annual Convention in

"This would be a very good opportunity for me to get involved in the community and I think I have the best of both worlds."

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON — A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had specu-lated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Diet-itary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated
 "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it," says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches.
 "The results are great," she added.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Holmes, 55-4, with 37 knockouts, made his last ring appearance in Biloxi on January 5 as he pounded out a ten-round decision over Everett Martin in a USA-televised bout.

Holmes won the WBS heavyweight title in June, 1978, with a 15-round decision over Ken Norton.

He went on to make 20 successful title defenses, the longest continuous reign of any heavyweight champion outside of Joe Louis.

Holmes was on his way to equaling Rocky Marciano's all-time 49-0 record when he was beaten on a controversial decision by Michael Spinks in September of 1985.

A comeback attempt against Mike Tyson in January 1988 ended in a technical knockout loss.

Holmes re-emerged as a force in the division when he won a one-sided 12-round decision over Ray Mercer in February of last year which led to his latest title challenge, a 12-round decision loss to Evander Holyfield last June.

To be eligible for another championship shot, he will have to make it by Peplei, 16-6-1, 15 knockouts, a native of Des Moines, Iowa.

Peplei, a former National Junior Olympic and Silver Gloves champion, is a quick starter, having registered seven first-round knockouts in his career.

Peplei made his motion picture debut last year, playing a heavyweight boxer in the major release "Diggstown," starring James Woods and Lou Gossett, Jr.

At 6'3", and upwards of 230 pounds, Peplei will be perhaps the biggest opponent Holmes has faced since returning to action in April of 1991.

old son was referred to GCCA agency by the welfare office.

"I'm glad I was referred to this program. It was my first time on welfare and I wanted to do something to better myself. Now I have that opportunity," she said.

Brown starts work Monday at Casino Magic as a change maker. For the past month, she has been working at the casino's Wizard Shop.

Brown was in the nursing program at the University of New Orleans and has about 2½ years left.

"I really want to be in that field, and hopefully, one day I can go back to that," she said. The agency supports her with child care at Lutheran Pines.

"The program has helped me a lot to get back on my feet," she said. "This is my first time being a mother and it's really tough."

"I always imagined that I would be a married parent. I never thought I'd be on welfare, but I'm happy to have a job to take care of myself and my son," she said.

JOBS is a federally funded program that offers assistance to people who are AFDC (Aid For Dependent Children) recipients. It teaches basic skills and offers job opportunities.

The program was started in orientation on the program. The agency does an assessment on them and they are told what components are available to them," said Joan Bennett, Hancock County coordinator.

Some of the services offered through the JOBS program are: education, job skills training, job readiness, job search, on-the-job training, alternative work experience and self-initiated education and training.

Support services that can be made available include: child care; transportation (for home visits and commodities delivery) and others. Each person is assigned a case manager.

The agency has 29 participants in the post-secondary program, nine in GED classes, one in job readiness and four in job search. The remainder are still in assessment or are employed. Other components offered at GCCAA are, low income energy assistance, HUD counseling and weatherization information.

"I find that most people are frantic when they first come here," said Bennett. "If we can remove the barrier of their self-sufficiency, then we can help them."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The end of the Mardi Gras season is fast approaching.

Area activities today include the Diamondhead Sea parade, which is scheduled to be at the yacht club at 3 p.m.

St. Paul's Carnival Association's parade in Pass Christian is set to start at 1 this afternoon.

On Fat Tuesday, Mardi Gras Day, the Krewe of Real People is scheduled to start its annual trek through Bay St. Louis at 1 p.m.

The parade starts forming at 11:30 a.m. at Bookter Street by Commerce Park. At 1 p.m. it travels Bookter to Necaise, Necaise to Main, Main to Beach Boulevard, Beach to Court, Court to Second, Second to Union, Union to Third, Third to Sycamore, Sycamore to Old Spanish Trail and returns to Bookter to disband.

The king and queen of Real People are Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Lamplsey of Bay St. Louis.

Charles Johnson is the krewe's captain and has been very busy getting the parade organized this year.

I am hoping you will try and view all of our local parades, as they need your support.

Those who ride in parades spend money and effort in bringing Mardi Gras to you.

I try to vary the subjects I comment on in my column from issue to issue, but things happen sometimes that change my mind.

Take for instance, I wrote about the one-eyed vehicles in my Thursday column, and I feel it is necessary to comment further.

Returning from a Wednesday meeting at DuPont, I realized Interstate 10 is not free of 'one-eyed' vehicles either.

From the DeLisle Exit to Highway 603 I noted two autos traveling east with only one headlight operational.

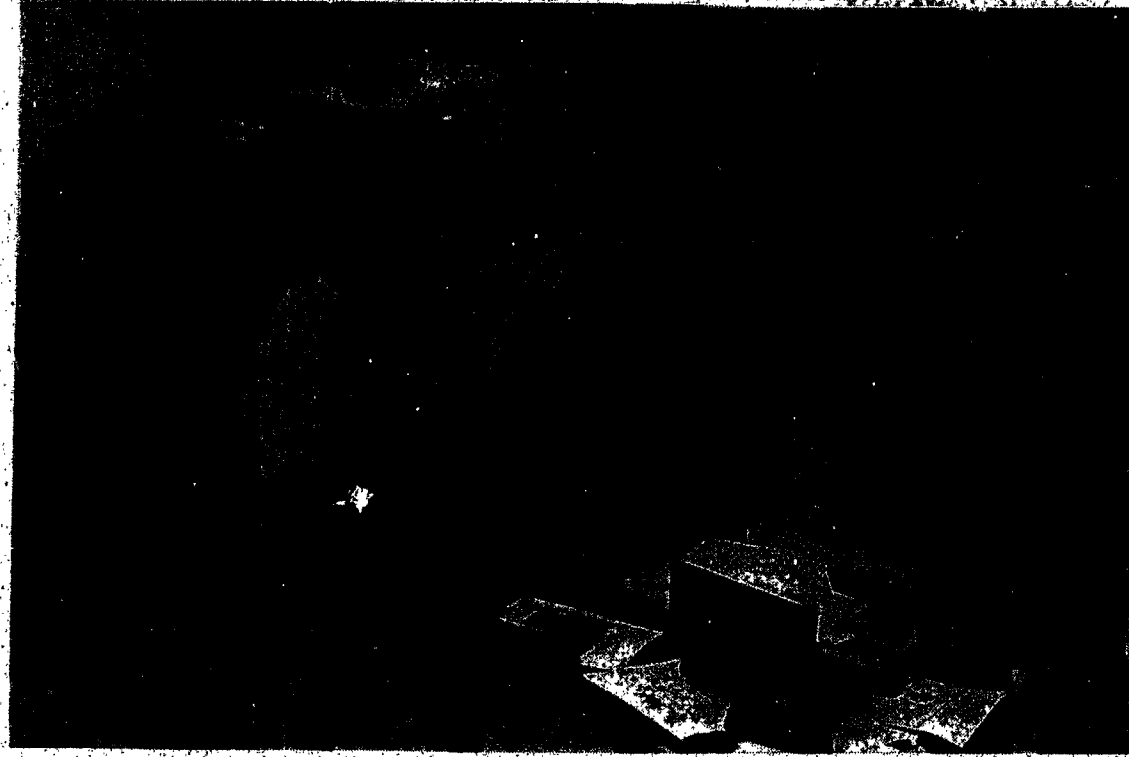

Highway 603 to 90, there were two pickups and two autos traveling north with only one headlight, while from Highway 603 to Main Street, Bay St. Louis, there was one auto and one pickup with only one eye.

Folks, it is dangerous traveling with only one headlight operating. It could cause some serious accidents.

Highways 603 and 90, along with Interstate 10, are much traveled roadways. It should be of concern to some agencies that there are dangerous vehicles in operation on them.

It is easy for motorists to check and see if both headlights are operational. All they have to do is turn the lights on and walk to the front of the vehicle.

Laws say it is possible to be cited for driving a vehicle with only one headlight operational.

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

A weekly update

Tort reform won't be an issue to divide the Senate and the House of Representatives during the 1993 legislative session. Both bodies have passed a compromise measure which awaits approval from the Governor.

By a vote of 43 to 6, the Senate ended debate between trial lawyers and business advocates on the state's legal system. The procedure for handling product liability cases and claims for punitive damages will change throughout Mississippi.

House Bill 1270 passed through the Senate without amending of the language or content of the bill. It accomplishes two principal purposes: (1) to state clearly the rules which apply to product liability suits in Mississippi so that interested parties will know with some degree of certainty what rules apply if suit is filed for damages claiming product defect; and

(2) to provide standards and procedural safeguards for consideration of punitive damages claims, since standards are nonexistent under present Mississippi law.

The reform law would not consider a product to be defective if the danger cannot be eliminated without compromising the usefulness or desirability of the product. Manufacturers are required to warn about dangers which were known to them or which should have been known with available knowledge. A manufacturer found liable for a defective product will compensate a seller for court costs if the seller did not know about a product defect.

New law requires clear and convincing evidence to collect punitive damages. Factors such as financial condition of the defendant, the degree of wrongdoing, the defendant's knowledge of harm and motivation, and the duration of any misconduct will be considered in punitive damage cases. Money rewarded will also have similar determining factors. Punitive damage cases will exclude contract, asbestos, and libel and slander from the provisions relating to punitive damages.

In other action this week, the Senate passed the following:

* A resolution giving counties and municipalities the authority to merge their governments into one form of government if they so desire. Provisions were made so that options were available to help reduce the cost of governmental administration throughout the state.

The merger is allowed on a voluntary basis by a majority vote in both county and city.

* A bill to revise absentee voting laws so that fraud and abuse of the election process can be prohibited.

* A concurrent resolution to commend Mike Espy as United States Secretary of Agriculture.

On Thursday, a joint assembly of the legislature was called to hear an address from fellow Mississippian and newly appointed member of the President's Cabinet, Mike Espy. Secretary Espy has served only four weeks as Agriculture Secretary but described it as a whirlwind experience of which he is humbled and excited. He unveiled a five-step program which he believes will provide fundamental change for our nation and its future.

Deficit reduction, a $30 billion dollar economy stimulation package, a long term investment plan, reformation of the health care system, and a desire not to let the past dictate the future were the components Espy declared necessary to build a better future for the country.

The Senate will continue working on finance and appropriations bills as the Feb. 25 deadline approaches for final action on these bills.

Senator Johnson may be reached by writing P. O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215 or by calling 359-3770.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Delay in start of lobbying law passes

The "Third House," a/k/a the 320 lobbyists who prowled the halls of the Legislature, got by almost unscathed in the first outing of the Lobbying Law Reform Act of 1993 last week in Mississippi's lower chamber.

On yes, the House (the real House, that is) passed a bill by a near-unanimous vote, which bore the title of Lobby Law Reform, but typically, the measure was injected with a fatal flaw which would leave it twisting in the wind for a long time to come.

By a 59 to 57 vote, the House stuck in an amendment that puts off the effective date of the lobbying act until January 1996. A lot of dirty water can pass under the bridge between now and then under the existing namby-pamby lobbyist regulatory act, which was the reason in the first place for passing a reform law.

Besides, there's no guarantee that in the next three year session clever foes of putting any serious constraints on lobbyists could slip in a repealer or another delaying amendment.

It's obvious that the House only passed the bill after assuring it would not go into effect until after the next gubernatorial elections. The message here is that a number of lawmakers wanted to rob Secretary of State Dick Mopus, the chief proponent of lobby law reform, of the chance to capitalize on it when he runs for governor in 1995.

There were constant undertones throughout the House debate that the real push for the lobbying law reform measure was Mopus' gubernatorial aspirations. In fact, the bill was put off being considered until the very last thing on the calendar before the deadline for floor action on it last Thursday night.

Word spread as the clock ticked toward adjournment that night that Speaker Tim Ford was going to let it die on the calendar. Next day, there were assurances from Ford and Rep. Mike Mills, the House Judiciary A chairman from whose committee the bill came, that they had no such intentions.

Significantly, before the lobbying reform bill was called up, the House took up a companion bill which moves the enforcement of the lobbying regulatory act from the Secretary of State's office to the State Ethics Commission. This was seen as a sort of "punishment" of Mopus for having gone to the news media to publicize some of the glaring cases of how lobbyists now get away with lavishing favors on legislators under the present law.

One of Mopus' bitterest foes is Rep. Charlie Williams of Senatobia, who, it was revealed from lobbyist reports last year, was the guest of a major tobacco company at the 1992 Super Bowl game. Williams as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee is in charge of bills affecting tobacco taxes.

Under the Ethics Commission, which has strict constraints of confidentiality placed on it by law, there obviously would be less public information flowing from it about lobbying activities than Mopus has provided in the past.

However, the House-passed bill does provide that lobbyists statements required to be filed shall continue to be a public record. But any investigation related to lobbying regulation is required to be kept confidential.

Mopus surprised some of his foes in the House by not opposing the transfer of lobbying regulation to the Ethics Commission. "That's fine with me," he said.

The primary loophole in present lobby law which Mopus sought to correct is that expenditures of $25 or less by a lobbyist on a legislator or other public official do not have to be reported by name. At least the bill passed by the House the other day removes that $25 threshold and requires all expenditures be reported.

But there may be a new loophole to take its place: Under the new measure, a lobbyist can entertain an entire legislative committee without reporting the names of the beneficiaries of his largesse. Or he can claim that the entire committee was invited, but only one or two lawmakers showed up.

Now the drive to tighten the law on lobbying regulation shifts to the Senate where Mopus' forces hope to knock out the House-injected delay to 1996. But the first obstacle is getting the reform bill out of the Senate Judiciary committee, which once before was the burial ground for lobby reform.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'Patriotism,' according to Webster's

To the Editor:

President Clinton's use of 'patriotism' in his speech Monday night sounds as if he is attempting to distract the American people from the fact that he is breaking many of his campaign promises. The word patriotism made me rush to Webster's New World Dictionary to check the definition of 'patriotism' as well as 'patriot.'

According to Webster's, patriot is a person who loves and loyally or zealously supports his own country; patriotism is love and loyal or zealous support of one's own country.

President Clinton is asking the American people to feel patriotic about tax increases (and broken promises). Did he have this same patriotic feeling when he left the United States to avoid his "special treatment" ROTC assignment granted to him by Col. Eugene Holmes at the University of Arkansas Law School?

While he was in England and Europe he "watched," "participated," "organized" demonstrations opposing the participation of the United States in the Vietnam War.

Unfortunately the American people are unable to flee as President Clinton did at that time.

Perhaps President Clinton is unable to spell patriotism? Sincerely, Juanita P. Brinsmade Diamondhead cover it."

"I am not satisfied with the format that I have to review bills. You complained earlier because I questioned the bills and you said I made the meetings run long. Now you want to reverse yourself. I don't see how anybody here has had a chance to review these bills. It is not giving us an opportunity to do what we are legally required to do," said Weidman.

Normal procedure in Waveland is for the docket to be delivered 24 hours before a meeting to aldermen.

Among the items Weidman discussed was an item on the docket concerning the renting of a cement saw to make repairs to Marcus Drive. He felt the city should not pay for the rental because the contracted work had not been done properly.

"The city has a legal obligation to pay for this rented equipment. The question of whether or not to file suit against the contractor is unrelated," said Lucien Gex, board attorney.

"I understand that through the mayor's poor judgment because she did not think of the continued problem, we owe the money," said Weidman.

"We are obligated to pay for the street. It has problems. It is suspected there is an underground stream or maybe quicksand," said Frilot.

"The city knew of prior problems in that area all the way back to 1972 and no one was there to observe to see if it was done properly and make sure they were taking the necessary precautions," said Weidman.

"This bill for rented equipment has nothing to do with the contract that we had," said Frilot.

"I'm not going to take personal insults from you," said Frilot.

"There is a legal obligation to vote yes if there is no legal problem with the bills," Frilot said.

"Are citizens going to have to pay for this job that was not up to standards?" said Weidman. "Originally that contractor was supposed to fix the road. These problems are coming home to roost now. They're cracked and separating," said Weidman.

Weidman said he had no objections to the legality of the bills, but he said he felt that the mayor made a faulty decision. "What legal problem do you have on this bill?" said Frilot.

"I have a problem with your authorizing this, something that should not have been done in the first place," said Weidman.

"So, you actually have a problem with me, not the bills," said Frilot.

Weidman's no vote on the docket was recognize

At Roy Anderson Corp we're proud of our thirty-eight (38) year track record of employing local people and doing business in South Mississippi. During the ongoing construction of Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis, we are pleased that 100% of our employees are from South Mississippi and over 90% of our subcontractors work force reside on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Our work force performed admirably in persevering a hurricane threat—as well as working 86 days (2064 non-stop hours) in successfully meeting the GRAND OPENING of Casino Magic. As the Wall Street Journal recently stated... "Casino Magic was the second most successful initial public offering company in all of 1992." We at Roy Anderson Corp are extremely proud that South Mississippi's richest resource, its people, are contributing to Casino Magic's ongoing success story.

North Bay teacher honored

Janet Fiveash, a kindergarten teacher at North Bay Elementary School, has been awarded the Mississippi Power Foundation's Alan R. Barton

Excellence in Teaching Award. Fiveash is one of three southeast Mississippi teachers who will be honored at a ceremony March 26 at Great Southern in Gulfport. She was chosen on the basis of personal involvement with students in learning activities, interest and enthusiasm for teaching and the ability to encourage self-motivation and self-confidence in students.

Fiveash received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Elementary Education from the University of Southern Mississippi. She taught for five years at Hancock County North Central Elementary School and has taught at North Bay Elementary School for the past two years.

A Poplarville native, she now resides in Waveland.

Fiveash will receive a plaque and a cash award and a plaque will also be given to the school. In addition, she will receive $1,000 for staff development in her department and $500 for materials to be used in her classroom.

The Barton Award was developed in 1990 to highlight excellence in classroom teaching and to raise awareness of the need for quality educational opportunities for all Mississippians.

The award commemorates the late Alan R. Barton, past president of Mississippi Power and founder of the Mississippi Power Foundation, for his contributions to education.

The Mississippi Power Foundation, Inc., is a non-profit organization formed by Mississippi Power Company to fund programs designed to improve education in the state.

Since it began operation in 1984, the foundation has provided more than $1.3 million to help fund education projects.

Janet Fiveash enthusiastically draws children into lessons.

GCRL offers two teacher mini-camps

Elementary and secondary educators will have an opportunity to enhance their knowledge of the coastal environment through two teacher mini-camps being offered this spring by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant

Consortium. Scholarships are being provided by Sea Grant to offset part of the $140 charge which covers instructional costs, lodging and most meals during each three-night, two-day program. These educational programs qualify for reimbursement under the Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Education Act for participating school districts.

"Wetlands and Maritime Forest," scheduled for April 28-30, will be headquartered at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park campus in Long Beach.

"Beach and Barrier Island" will be offered May 5-7 at the GCRL's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi, with lodging provided on GCRL's main campus in Ocean Springs.

Educators should contact the MEC&A at 374-5550 for more information.
